3 days of work

During the three working days of the project the compilation of the CLIL manual was completed and its most appropriate format was agreed upon.

And that's not all...

The number of lesson to be prepared was redefined and issues concerning copyright of materials available on Internet were discussed. All this is to be further looked into in a future meeting in Italy.

Project meeting M3

From 24th to 26th May 2022 the third international meeting of the project entitled 'CLIL in Education' took place in Bratislava in Slovakia involving teachers from the participating countries: Czech Republic, Slovakia, Spain, Estonia, Turkey and Italy.

An interesting tour of the school

An interesting tour of the Slovak school was made the first working morning, which enabled the participants to share educational and organisational experiences by comparing them to those put into practice back home.

Useful exchange of ideas and information

An engaging exchange of ideas promoted the sharing of information and suggestions regarding the use of educational apps.

- Recreational activities
- Social evenings

The evenings and social activities revealed interesting cultural aspects, which for many of us were new, in particular the unusual architectural features of the historic centre of Bratislava with its local bars and restaurants, its original buildings, many of which are under renovation, and the unusual commemorative statues to be found all over the city. The imposing castle that dominates the Danube from above and the original Blue Church of more recent construction perhaps represent the symbols of this city, which is the smallest capital in Europe.

The school in Cartagena (Spain) has offered to host the next meeting which will involve 3 students from each participating country. The young beneficiaries will participate in CLIL activities proposed by teachers delivered in an international competition format. Among the many aims of this initiative one objective is to foster and encourage collaboration between students of different nationalities and put the various activities planned by the teachers to the test.
